Our guide to the French healthcare system

The Protection Universelle Maladie (PUMa)

The Protection Universelle Maladie (Universal Health Insurance) allows everyone to benefit from basic coverage of medical costs by the French Social Security. This system is one of the pillars of French social protection.

Anyone living in France (regardless of nationality) for a continuous and stable stay of at least 3 months can benefit from it.

To check if you are eligible for PUMa, click here. You can also contact the English-speaking advisers at the French Social Security by phone at 09 74 75 36 46 (from France) or +33 09 74 75 36 46 (from abroad).

Mutuelles, also known as supplementary health insurances

While the Protection Universelle Maladie provides a basic level of coverage, it is often insufficient. For example, in the case of medications, the French Social Security only covers between 30% and 65% of the costs, depending on the type of medication. To supplement these reimbursements from the French Social Security, you can choose a mutuelle (supplementary health insurance).

With MyHealth France, you benefit from the only French mutuelle designed specifically for expats. This will significantly reduce your out-of-pocket expenses, and you'll have access to multilingual advisers and services at every step. To help you choose the right plan for your needs, see examples of reimbursements on page 11.

Contrat Responsable (state-approved plan)

What is it?

A Contrat Responsable, or state-approved plan, ensures healthcare coverage that meets at least the minimum requirements set by French law. These plans also promote accountability for both patients and healthcare providers regarding the financing of the Social Security by implementing measures such as the coordinated care pathway and the requirement to designate a médecin traitant (primary care doctor).

How does coverage work?

The reimbursement levels for medical costs depend on whether the doctor is part of the DPTAM (Dispositif de Pratique Tarifaire Maîtrisée) or not.

(see Definitions on page 14)

By choosing a doctor who participates in DPTAM, you benefit from higher reimbursement rates for services and consultations through the French Social Security. To find out if your doctor is part of DPTAM, visit: <http://annuaire.sante.ameli.fr/>

A plan compliant with «100% Santé»

Since January 1, 2020, the French government has introduced a reform aimed at improving access to healthcare where out-of-pocket expenses are often high—this is known as «100% Santé».

With this reform, you are fully reimbursed by the French Social Security and your supplementary health insurance for «100% Santé» equipment, which includes a selection of glasses, dental prostheses, and hearing aids, all at regulated prices. You still have the option to choose equipment outside of this selection, which will be reimbursed according to the limits of your policy coverage.

With MyHealth France, you can benefit from a plan compliant with «100% Santé» starting from the Level 2 plan.

Medical charges and flat-rate fees applied by French Social Security that are not reimbursed by your insurance plan:

- > €2 per consultation, procedure, or laboratory work
- > €1 per box of medication and for each paramedical service
- > €4 for medical transportation

What is DPTAM?

DPTAM is a generic term referring to various schemes aimed at controlling excess fees charged by healthcare professionals who are contracted with the French Social Security system. This mainly applies to doctors who have signed up to the «Contrat d'Accès aux Soins» (Care Access Contract) or have opted for the «Option de Pratique Tarifaire Maîtrisée» (Controlled Pricing Option - OPTAM/OPTAM-CO). By consulting a doctor who participates in DPTAM, you benefit from better reimbursement for treatments and consultations by the French Social Security.
